Old Main

Time changes everything.

Decapitated Old Main, once a land-mark in central lilinois, hopefully approaches its ninety-sixth year as the oldest building in the country now being used for teacher education.

Outside, the cooing pigeons adopt its crevices for their domicile, and inside the droning profs still attempt to intrigue the students with their theories of education.

Old Old Main, which has lost its dome, its roof, and its third level, still holds up on the second and first levels with the student lounge for after class rendezvous, the textbook library of deep, dark secrets, the ancient classrooms, and a few left-over administrative offices. Famous Four Corners still exists as the spigoting point for news flashes and traffic jams.

Although ISNU had only one curriculum in 1900, it now boasts expanded curricula of five divisions. To maintain pace with these growing curricula and an increasing enrollment, new buildings have appeared on our sixty-four acre campus and others have been reconstructed. ISNU's Old Main has lost its place in campus distinction to a stately new Special Education Building, one of the best in the country.

Modern designs for interior decoration are exemplified in the two new dormitories accommodating 300 students. A new Administration Building completes the recent constructions. However, a sneak preview of ISNU's future envisions a training school, student union, and two residence halls.

President's Message

The purpose of a college or university annual or yearbook is to reveal through pictures and words the events of a particular college year. This each staff seeks to do to the best of the abilities of the combined group. Naturally they wish to produce something different, something unique, something especially attractive that will live in the memories of the students of that year. There is the desire to do better than those who have gone before and to set a goal of attainment for those who follow. All such attainments are far from easy in days of rising costs in all phases of producing such a book. It is therefore a real pleasure to extend greetings at this time and to recount some of the very interesting things that have taken place during this current school year.

And now just what has the school year 1952-1953 meant to students of I.S.N.U.? From the tangible evidence point of view, it has seen the completion of two units to Fell Hall, residence for freshmen women, and provision in one of those units of a much-needed social center in the form of a snack bar named by students "The Cage." This year has witnessed the completion of considerable site development and landscaping over the campus and the drawing of plans for a new elementary-junior high school building to cost over two million dollars when built and furnished.

This school year will go down in history as the one when definite plans for the Centennial of 1957 were launched and the year when the first definite steps were taken toward the erection of a Student Union. It will stand out as one involving much greater participation of students in university affairs and the pointing toward an increase of such cooperation. The President's Student Leaders Group, the taking of students on trips to alumni and other meetings, the study and visitation of student unions at other schools, and greater use of students on committees and boards are but a part of important initial steps in student participation.

As the year closes, the hope is for adequate recognition and provision of ample funds by the General Assembly for the next biennium to operate successfully the University as well as appropriations for much-needed buildings such as the elementary-junior high school structure and a classroom building, together with funds for the finishing of the top floor of Fell Hall and the completion of needed landscaping. Just think what all of this, together with a new Student Union to be constructed on a self-liquidating basis without tax money, would mean to a greater I.S.N.U.

Elementary Ed.

Classrooms of small white tables and brown desks, easels and shelves of paint splattered jars, home economics facilities, plus two spacious playrooms occupy the greater portion of Metcalf, where ISNU's little playmates develop their grey matter and biceps and triceps, and mind their p's and q's.

This year three hundred and fifty-six ISNU students are regularly enrolled in this division, which is supervised by Dr. Margaret Cooper. Characterized by a broad field of preparation, rather than by specialization in any one area, this division integrates all classes of study for kindergarten-primary, intermediate, and upper grade teaching.

The sequence of educational courses for these future teachers commences their freshman year when they observe Metcalf classes; as sophomores they delve into the problems of child growth and development, in which they do intensive studies of specific little characters from Metcalf. During their third year they participate as assistants in elementary classes at some time each week. The senior researchers emerge from their many educational classes as student teachers.

Lola Giseburt, William Whiteside, and Radney Senn help the younger generation.

Norma Little, Donna Fagel, and Cleane Eddy prepare far speech therapy.

Special Ed.

In brightly sunlit rooms with gaily colored pink, green, and blue mirror-panelled doors are special classes for the exceptional child. In these attractive classrooms of green writing boards, immaculate white washbasins, small spinet pianos, and little brown desks, the mentally retarded, the physically handicapped, the partially sighted and blind, the deaf and hard of hearing, and the maladjusted children receive special education.

The one hundred and eighty-six students who are specializing in one of the six fields work with children from four-year kindergarten through the eighth grade. This area is a complete unit within itself with its psychological counseling service, speech clinic, hearing and reading laboratory, library, music room, and classrooms. This division, directed by Dr. Rose Parker, provides for a staff of twelve supervisors, a nurse, a librarian, a physical therapist, and facilities for training the children in home, industrial, fine and applied arts.

Mory Lou Houser, Glenn Rittmueller, Normo Conham, and Corol Kelson discover where Mr. Geoffrey Chaucer lived.

English

The shadows of Shakespeare, Milton, and Chaucer creep from the leaves of bulky literature books to haunt the rooms of North Hall where Dr. H. R. Hiett's department congregates for meetings. Trekking through the centuries, students encounter nearly every phase of literature—ancient, modern; European, American, and English.

North Hall is also the center for journalism. Reporting courses initiate the cubs into the principles of journalism by requiring a weekly ten inches of writing in the Vidette.

English grammar is the trademark for every member enrolled in the English Department. This two hour course acquaints each with the fundamentals of diagramming.

The numerous literature subjects are sprinkled with a few composition courses in which the participants experiment with various types of writing.

Speech

Fundamentals of speech are familiar to all ISNU students who try to acquire desirable speech habits—elimination of "uhs" and "ahs," and control of rattling knees and gibbering voices. Although Demosthenes used pebbles to develop his vocal sounds, public speaking and voice and diction classes here are trained in skillful use of language sounds to further their oratorical powers.

Members of argumentation and debate classes in Dr. F. L. D. Holmes' curriculum often achieve renown as winners in debating contests.

Which ploy is it this time, Corol Hoffmon, Dorothy Edwords, and Gene Hinton?

Library Science

Noncy Quimby checks out books far Colleen Robinsan, Helen Bourgeois, and Morilyn Schumacher.

"Seeing through Johnny to know Johnny" is the motto for Miss Eleanor Welch's students, who learn to select the right book for the right child.

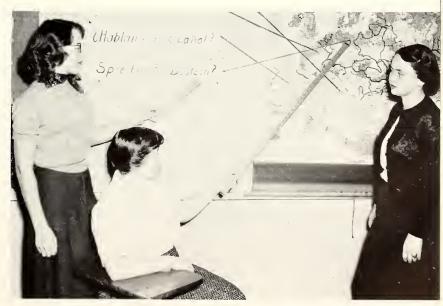

The junior and senior minors read Daniel Boone's adventures and Tom Sawyer's enterprises, which they record very diligently for their stacks of reading guidance file cards. "What part of a catbird's food is protein?" sends the minors into every nook and corner of the library for the answer.

Please translate, Jaan Hensley, Barbara Zbinden Pyle, and Jaanne Andersan.

Foreign Languages

Whether it's a translation of the German Ich liebe dich or of the Latin amo, amas, amat, Dr. Jennie A. Whitten's Foreign Language Division has the answer. Besides learning how to read, write, and speak foreign languages, the students are given an appreciation of their cultural contributions. French, German, and Latin serve as a bridge between the Old World and the New, while Spanish serves as a gateway to an understanding of our good neighbors to the south. No student can run the gamut of learning a foreign language without becoming intimately acquainted with each interjection and verb.

Jahn Finnell illustrates the use of the counting board to Howard Soar, Miss Flagg, and Marilyn Peppard.

Mathematics

With a slide rule in one hand and a log book in the other, the cool, calculating math major proceeds to solve the unknown. For him x and y are not only characters of the alphabet, but added together equal an unknown quantity. Solution of this mystery leads him, down the paths of analytical geometry and spherical trigonometry, roads which are rough with parabolas, ellipses, and hyperbolas.

After these barriers are surmounted and the student has crossed the celebrated flat plain of plane geometry, he wades through the deeper parts of algebra—theories of equations, exponents, and binomial theorems.

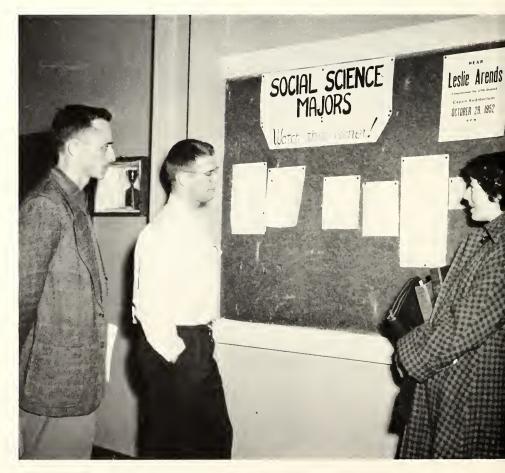

Four years and thirty-two major hours later, Dr. C. N. Mills' enthusiast reaches the other side and finds the object of his search—a future of teaching practical mathematics to the citizens of tomorrow. Minors obviate many of the rougher obstacles through short cuts which whittle their required hours down to twenty-four.

Social Science

Dr. John A. Kinneman and his force induct each future ISNU graduate into the ranks of the educated with one year of contemporary civilization and a year of history of civilzation to present the idea that, like it or not, we all have a past.

Majors and minors digging deeper into the field unearth curious facts about group relationships in sociology and lay bare the rock-ribbed principles of economics. In their study of the community, the researchers carry out a project on their favorite topic of conversation—the old home town! An extensive background in American and European history gives them an integrated teaching personality.

These avid seekers of knowledge spend their leisure time buried in a corner of the library reading various treatises for the inevitable term papers. Ed Stawe, Carl Nickens, and Anthea Exdell catch up an the latest news.

Physical Science

"Double, double, toil and trouble;
Fire burn and test tubes bubble."

Future ISNU physics and chemistry teachers are synthesized in the laboratories and classrooms of the Physical Science Department where solutions of wisdom are mixed and atoms of knowledge are split.

Thistle tubes, crucibles, and beakers are some of the apparatus essential for the class-rooms where the Einsteins mix and analyze solutions. Laboratory analysis, radio study, rudiments of thermodynamics, photography, and aeronautics are varied electives in the career of these students.

Dr. R. U. Gooding's department features in the life of all campus members who receive a few hours' knowledge of the simple machines. Majors, however, make contact with general physics and later take off into advanced mechanics and thermodynamics.

Darian Smith and Lawrence Smith da a little qualitative analysis.

Biological Science

Dissecting needles, formaldehyde, and a cooperating earthworm start these majors and minors on a career in biological science. Microscopes are used to examine minute details.

Perhaps this is the most health conscious group in the University, with such courses as administration of school health and modern health problems. Birds, fish, reptiles, yeasts, and fungi form a checkered career for the scientists.

Excluding Ernest M. Lamkey's specialists, every ISNU student is inducted into the ranks of this department sometime during his four years.

Arlen Rittenhause, Bill Cate, Jahn Schaff, Lillabelle Lebegue conduct an experiment.

B. Smith, N. Mortland, and N. Brucker might be home economics majors, but they know obout waffle mix, too.

Higglety, pigglety, their block hens, they loy eggs for these gentlemen—Mr. Laubaugh, C. Querrey, R. Woshburn, B. Hartmon, ond H. Berto.

Home Economics

Delicious aromas of food are often detected wafting through the halls of Old Main near lunch time as the white-robed chefs of the Home Economics Department prepare delicacies for their luncheon guests. In addition to eking out the day's nutritious meals and converting yesterday's fashions into 1953 styles, dating problems and family relationships enter the learners' curriculum.

Agriculture

Crowing roosters, squealing pigs, and mooing cows create a scene of barn yard hubbub down on the University Farm where Director Clyde W. Hudelson's agriculture students congregate for classes.

The men study the care, breeding, and judging of livestock and poultry. All phases of farm life ranging from field crop classes to farm management courses constitute the curriculum.

Dick Burns, Evan Barchers, William Borrar, Frank Castle, and Danald Anderberg learn just haw this thing works.

Business Ed.

The symphony of ringing bells and clicking keys in Cook Hall proves it to be the practice center for business students. Secretarial training, accounting and law, and distributive and general business are the various sequences in the department directed by Dr. Lewis Toll.

Industrial Arts

Sounds of buzzing saws and pounding hammers reverberate throughout the Industrial Arts Building where members of R. M. Stombaugh's department become efficient in drawing, metalwork, and woodworking.

Rosin an the bow and here we go—Eileen Hite, Mary Hinshaw, Russell Knudsan, Lais Schaffenacker, and Dove Luper.

Music

From early morning until late evening, melodious refrains of music soar into the air from the glimmering gold horns in the little white music building.

In addition to a familiarization with the musical instruments, the ISNU Beethovens participate in theory classes where they compose their own sonatas. The maestros direct their own self-scored orchestrations for campus organizations during the season. Just to insure a knowledge of the treble and bass clef notes, the musicians have concert band, orchestra, and vocal work added to their core curriculum. The students often trudge to a summer school to complete their program.

Roy Schaenbarn, Edith Lentz, Mr. Barford, and Truman Fox wonder what will develop from the potter's wheel under the hands of Byran Shurtleff.

Art

Donning his paint-spattered smock and twirling his long, slender brush in hand, the ISNU van Gogh proceeds to stir the aesthetic soul with his creation of a self-portrait. Dr. Louis Hoover's artist develops an ability to draw in a variety of media.

Textile designs, hand sculptures, enameled trays, jewelry, puppets, and carved objects are a few of the intriguing products which result from basic materials' workshops.

Studies of the human figure are used as a basis for creative expression in life drawing and modeling courses. During his senior year, the art major proudly displays his college projects in the West Bridge Gallery.

Miss Miner describes the tennis kind of love to Corol Marshall, Ruth Spiegel, and Joon Green.

Women's P.E.

Tooting whistles, flying missiles, and white sports-clad women create a scene of vim, vigor, and vitality on South Campus and in McCormick Gymnasium. Courses of varied sports give Dr. Esther French's girls a sufficient background in individual and team activities.

With a "do-ce-do and around you go," the folk and social groups swing into square formations to develop the skills of folk dances. Additional ease and grace are attained in swimming classes. Upper classmen act as junior participants in college and training school gymnasium classes.

Bertho, the skeleton, gets the once over from Douglas Blair, John Swolec, Donold Blokely, Mr. Honcock, and Douglas Corl.

Men's P. E.

The mighty Atlases developed in this department totaled some two-hundred and thirty-five ISNU men this year. A variety of courses train Dr. Clifford E. Horton's teachers and coaches in individual, dual, and team activities.

Skimming through their field, anatomy and physiology seems to be a favorite subject. Aside from batting balls, kicking the pigskin, and running the one-hundred yard dash, these versatile sportsmen delve into the administration of a physical education program for young people. Numerous electives satisfy any urge to be limber acrobats, expert swimmers, or nimble tennis players.

Education

Dr. Chris A. DeYoung's department is concerned with the development of all the individual's capacities. From the time the freshman masters the various administrative units of education until the senior absorbs the philosophy of John Dewey, this area fosters a professional attitude.

American public education for the freshman, psychology for the sophomore, secondary education for the junior, and student teaching for the senior—all are designed to meet the needs of the future teacher.

Marian Gardner, Dr. Herman Tiedeman, Margaret Murray, Max Scott, and Marigenne Ryburn seem happy about future plans.

Dr. Arthur Wattersan, Harald Limper, and William Shawgo cansult the atlas to settle the questian.

Geography

Whether it's a question about rock formation in Asia or the topography of the bush country in Australia, the Geography Department has the answer.

This field specializes not only in the study of geology, climate, and topography, but it also serves as a United States weather station. To implement Dr. Arthur W. Watterson's regular courses of study, a field trip is sponsored each summer.

The geographical exhibits in North Hall—the mineral display, the daily weather maps, the forecasting instruments, and a huge relief map of the United States—provide informative entertainment for the passing student or teacher.

Graduates

Prompted by a call for higher learning, the graduate student resigns himself to a year's study at ISNU and to little, if any, income. Graduate study, now in its ninth year here, offers specialization in fourteen departments. A master's degree in education may be obtained for positions varying from that of the teacher to that of the supervisor.

The graduate undergoes quite a different curriculum from that of his less advanced counterpart. For one thing, the scholar may encounter more doctors now than in any of his previous work, as ISNU offers courses taught by ninety-two teachers with Ph.D. degrees. To ensure that the student will not go astray from his righteous path of study, each is given special guidance under an Advisory Committee which is directed by a Ph.D. from his department.

As a means of inducing him to make straight "A's," fifty-six carrels are provided in the stack area of Milner Library where the studious person may renounce his loafing pastimes and seek a retreat in his own private nook to revel in John Dewey's philosophy, to dream of his thesis on "Seven Cardinal Principles in Podunk High School," or even catch a few winks. Whatever he does, it behooves the seeker of knowledge to pursue his subjects very diligently, for the fatal "C" can prove treacherous to his success.

FROSH WEEK

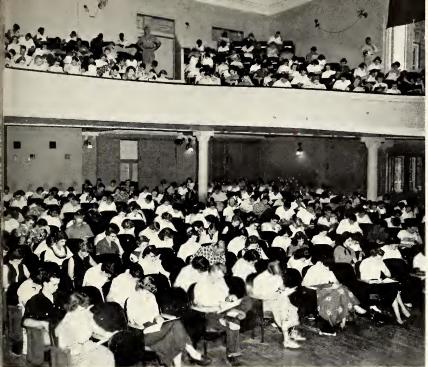

People, people, and more people—tests, tests, and more tests,—meetings, appointments, physical exams, speech tests, tea parties, tours—Blackfriars may have Hell Week, but the ISNU newcomer has Frosh Week, which seems to him a whirlpool of confusion.

Freshman Week was a carefully laid plan to keep each of the frosh running in circles for a perfect week of activity. Entrance tests, which the freshman declared were invented to torture his associational neurons, determined not only his I.Q. but also his status in English grammar. After twelve years of English, he was given one last chance to remember the eight parts of speech. As the novice clutched his lucky charm in one hand and his pencil in the other, he commenced to make small marks on a large sheet of paper and prayed that the grading machine wasn't entirely heartless.

The bewildered initiate was not only tested mentally, but also physically. For the first time in his young life he was thoroughly examined, analyzed, and tested for his quirks, eccentricities, and irregular breathing. Minus his clothes and his modesty, he was required to stand in line for hours while innumerable doctors checked his tonsils, teeth, blood pressure, muscular coordination, and the length of his fingernails in an effort to determine whether or not he was strong enough to participate in the vigorous sports involved in recreational activity.

Freshmen tests torture these "young 'uns."

John Schimmelpfenning, Morris Lomb, Geroldine Brown ond Joonne Adomson end o perfect doy.

Apart from the tests, our young neophyte was confronted with other phases of ISNU life. Teas and the freshman mixer brought forth the social traits of the frosh. Dressed in tux, bow tie, and spats, he had to appear at ease and well-poised as he participated in witty, scintillating chats. Emotional adjustment was another of the freshman's greatest problems. Roommates, housemothers, teachers, and friends were a new world to him.

All this and registration, too, constituted Freshman Week. May this noble tradition survive and serve as an initiation for all who seek to enter our portals.

Registration

The blue plush seats of Capen to relieve the tiresome waiting, an efficient photographer to snap the lovely smiles, and then — the IBM process!

Although some students nearly acquired a suntan while in the waiting lines outside Milner, there was an opportunity to renew old acquaintances and to exchange news of broken engagements, of new girlfriends, and of the prospective male-female ratio for the semester.

After having struggled through the weary crowd and staggered over the Milner threshold, the hopeful registrants came to the comparative peace and quiet of Milner on registration day. However, some students encountered only more frustration here as they discovered filled sections that altered their schedules, necessitating first hour classes.

After informing the University for the tenth time of their fifteen hours of courses, their life histories, and, incidentally, their mothers' maiden names, the exhausted registrants dragged to the misty depths of the textbook library for the books which would give to their souls and bodies "all the perfection of which they were capable."

AND THE YEAR

Queen Jo Gould

Homecoming

Old Sol shone forth in all his glory to welcome alumni and students to a warm, sunny homecoming, October 17-18. Many gaily decorated "Beat Western" houses and the colorful "Victory" parade contributed to the gala celebration. The parade contained some seventy-nine entries which attracted an estimated crowd of 15,000.

Other features included Capen Theatre off little campus circle where Irwin, a meek verse writer of "Three Men on a Horse," entertained the alumni with his hobby of doping horses. Although the Redbirds dropped their homecomer to the Leathernecks, 20-7, dampened spirits were revived by the music of Jimmy "Dancing Shoes" Palmer in McCormick Gymnasium. Queen Jo Gould, who was elected by popular school vote, was formally crowned to reign over the dancers. Numerous organizational breakfasts, luncheons, and dinners added to the panorama of entertainment.

Assemblies and Entertainment Board

Knitters, book-worms, balcony sweethearts, clock watchers, and the fascinated few congregated each Wednesday in Capen to hear oratorical declamations designed to contribute to the cultural side of future teachers. After attendance was taken, the master of ceremonies, President Fairchild, read the announcements and introduced the speakers at each session.

A vast array of programs was presented during the past year, ranging from the hilarious presentation of the Blackfriar candidates for homecoming queen to a serious discussion of family relations by Mrs. Marian T. Nagler and Dr. Harold T. Christensen, complete with student discussion groups. Other assemblies ran the gamut of a discussion on "Tensions in China" by Mr. Edwin Payne, a presentation of colored slides and a narration on his European tour by Dr. Watterson, and a humorous musical lecture by Mr. Edwin Steckel.

The glamour of Broadway descended on ISNU as troupers trod the boards in Capen and McCormick Gymnasium throughout the year. Tickets, always at a premium, became scarce as hen's teeth when ardent fans rose at 6:00 in the morning to queue up in front of the ticket booth and reserve choice seats for a sight of movie star Tyrone Power. McCormick Gymnasium was packed to the rafters the night Raymond Massey, Judith Anderson, and Tyrone Power appeared in Charles Laughton's stirring, dramatic version of Stephen Vincent Benet's "John Brown's Body." Adding greatly to the production were the sound effects and background music provided by the Walter Schumann Chorus.

One of the early numbers in the entertainment series was the concert by Mack Harrell, baritone of the Metropolitan Opera, who will be remembered for his interpretations of classical selections. Another high spot was the "Private Music Hall" of Elsa Lanchester. Almost stealing the show from Elsa's song and dance routines were the antics of the Mad Hatters Quartet.

Nathan Milstein was engaged for the third appearance in the series with his violin recital. During the latter part of the season were the Vienna Boys' Choir, presenting a program of costumed operettas, some waltzes, and sacred and secular music in March.

"Haw about exchanging partners?"

Dances

Dances varying from "Jeans Jumps" to "Heart Hops" set the rhythm for the swing and sway of the year's melodies. Preceding each big evening careful schemes were plotted to snag the smoothest dancing partner. Step two called for special moves to inveigle Mom and Dad into buying some new clothes to suit his or her personality. Finally, when the evening arrived, Cinderella donned her finery, patted her curls into place, eased into her little silver slippers, and issued forth to join her prince in lilting beats of sweet, melodic lines.

"Messiah"

A stage filled with more than two hundred and fifty ISNU men and women dressed in formals and dress suits was the scene of the annual "Messiah" on Sunday evening of December 7. The combined choirs of the University - Women's Chorus, Men's Glee Club, and University Choir—gathered in Capen Auditorium for the sixteenth presentation of George Frederick Handel's oratorio. Dr. Emma R. Knudson was the director of the choir, and Mr. William Benedict, a 1947 graduate, was the organist for the vast group of choristers. Alumni were invited to participate.

Soloists for the occasion were Don Shader, Roger Jacobson, Louise Schultz, and Bettyglen Render. Miss Margaret Westhoff was coach for the singers.

Following the program, the participants and their friends retired to the social rooms of the Administration Building for friendly chats and refreshments.

Christmas Activities

Bright, smiling foces and joyous Christmos songs reflect the seoson's spirit.

'Twas the week before Christmas And all through the school Not a student was studying, He was breaking the rule . . .

Such was the scene of ISNU before the holidays. Christmas trees with dazzling ornaments and tinsel appeared in various campus buildings. Capen Auditorium also shone forth with the holiday spirit as a celestial blue glowed through its dimness from painted windows decorated with snowflakes.

Religious services were held in Capen where Reverend G. Westberg of the Divinity School of the University of Chicago spoke. Other groups who joined in the season's festivities were Women's League, which sponsored noontide meditations, and the Music and Speech Departments, which presented the Christmas assembly.

Club activities of the season varied from eating the old turkey gobbler to pulling taffy. Several groups collected items for needy families, while others played Santa Claus to small children.

Exam Week

At the end of each semester comes a week of anguish and mental torture for the average student, but for the privileged few there's a feeling of accomplishment. This period of trial is commonly called Exam Week.

During this time, the faculty members attempt to get even with all those who slept in the corners, played ticktacktoe in the back row, or read joke books under their very noses as they attempted to lecture. On the other hand, note-taking apple polishers and the weak-willed ones who read the text had nothing to fear. They did not have to borrow note-books desperately, lose hours of sleep, or sit beside an "A" student on the fateful day! But then, grades aren't everything, the professors tell us.

Operetta

Lowell Mason Club docked the "H. M. S. Pinafore," in Capen Auditorium for this year's operetta by those droll composers, Gilbert and Sullivan. Steering at the helm were Jim Partridge, director, his assistant, Sam Cuzella, and Sponsor Herbert Sanders.

Roger Jacobson manned the Pinafore as Captain Corcoran. Marguerite Micken was his lovely daughter, Josephine, who was hopelessly in love with the deckhand, Don Shader. His rival, Sir Joseph Porter (Al Pizzamiglio), Cousin Hebe (Marge Israel), and the numerous sisters, cousins, and aunts contributed their share to the plot in songs and orations. Poor Little Buttercup, who solved the love puzzles, was portrayed by Louise Schultz.

University Theatre

Dick Knopik tells Max Scatt that he and his friends are figments of Scott's imagination in "Thunder Rack,"

"Calumbine, I always lied about the maan and yau; faod is my anly lust," whispers Richard Cima to Helen Nickaley in "Aria Da Capa." "Three Men on a Horse," advancing to "Thunder Rock," trailed by "An Indian Captive" sums up not a wild west plot, but a list of the fall and winter plays presented on the campus.

Probably the most humorous play of the year was the homecoming one, "Three Men on a Horse." The three acts centered around one Erwin Trowbridge, a meek little man who wrote greeting card verses for a vocation and doped horse races in his spare time.

The problem of an individual's relation to the world was the fanciful theme of the Jester play, "Thunder Rock." The plot was exceptionally timely, as the psychological drama dealt with the doubts and problems of people in the world today.

Little Indians cavorted across Capen's stage in February when children from Metcalf, Normal Central, and Special Education portrayed characters in the Children's Theatre undertaking, "Indian Captive." Also, during the late winter months, the Experimental Theatre presented two one-act plays, "Aria Da Capo" and "A Phoenix Too Frequent."

Miss Mabel Clare Allen was the director for ISNU's dramas, while Mr. Harlan Shaw managed the technical side of the productions.

Paor little Nellie ruined, utterly ruined!

A black-cloaked villain and a shy little country lass amid scenes of snow storms, buzzing sawmills, and noisy farmyards made up the central plot for the Blackfriar melodrama, "Only an Orphan Girl."

This soul-stirring drama, which was written by Glenn Schuermann, presented all the trials and tribulations of one little Nellie (John Wilson), who was pursued by the villain (Dick Evans). Striving to save Nellie from her evil plotter were motherly Mrs. Perkins (Bill Kritzmire), a clean-cut farm lad (Don Jamerson), and her neighbor (Karl Smith). Charles Aschenbrenner was a little ray of sunshine called Lucy, while Donn Berwanger played the character of the villain's wife.

Adding to this gay nineties atmosphere were the pert bathing beauty ushers and the extra entr'acte entertainers. Impresario Albert Pizzamiglio and his orchestra provided the music.

"Hear ye! Hear ye! Step right up and see your friends and faculty as they really are!" With this spiel and a booth of faculty faces and figures, the Elementary Club captured first prize for their Rogues' Gallery at the annual Women's League Carnival.

Orchesis took top honors for their little game called "Swing-It," while the Jesters vied for a prize with their mysterious predictions of fortunes. Although the Fell Hall girls didn't win a prize, they certainly won their share of the attention with the booth "Give Gertie Her Garter!" Highlighting the Carnival was the talent show which brought forth an array of ISNU entertainment ranging from the singing Coconut Trio to a ukulele band.

Stunt Show

How's of glee and roars of laughter issued from Old Capen as the actors of the annual Stunt Show laid 'em in the aisles.

The evening began with the Social Science Club's garbled version of Christopher Columbus and progressed to Lowell Mason's prize-winning "Wedding of the Painted Doll," complete with a wooden bride and colorful array of attendants. The Jesters entertained the audience with "Reminiscence," which depicted the daily schedule of an ISNU student.

Copping second place in the show were "The Wizard of Is" and his court, curing football players of their absent brains and the heartless professors of their pathetic condition.

The crowning achievement of the evening's entertainment was the faculty capers, outstanding among which were Dr. Micken posing as a muscle man of Gamma Phi, Dean Keaton and Miss Frey tripping the light fantastic, and Dean Linkins going through his Blackfriar imitation. Just call him "Pinkie"; the girls all do!

College Day

"Remember, 'accentuate the positive; eliminate the negative'."

In the spring the Publicity Office's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of hundreds of young college-bound high school seniors. As a result, once a year the campus overflows with a deluge of critical young people who swarm over our green sward, tramp up and down the stairs, and finally descend upon the gymnasium for free food.

During the course of their campus tour, they are subjected to an advertising campaign by the best salesmen available to ISNU — a volunteer group of enthusiastic students who act as guides for the day.

Many an undergraduate of ISNU owes his choice of colleges to the impressions of campus, buildings, faculty, and student body received on this initial visit to ISNU.

Commencement

After quenching his thirst at the fountain of knowledge, the candidate for the baccalaureate degree sees before him the beginning of the end as he receives his diploma from President Fairchild in the shady green amphitheater near Milner Library.

Attired in his grey gown and trim white collar, the senior reminisces concerning his college studies, his friends, and his escapades. As the commencement music moderates into a tranquil melody, the graduate recapitulates his last year at ISNU, a most important one of final preparation for this momentous graduation—reference blanks that were hopefully presented for good recommendations, personal statements that covered his life's most distinguished phases, and the senior pictures that were taken for the inquiring superintendent's first impression. His senior interviews with visiting principals may have determined his tomorrows as a future teacher: an occasion begun with great expectations, endured with perseverance, and concluded with possibilities for consideration at a later date.

While the commencement speaker waxes rhetorical, the senior rehashes his days of student teaching which gave him an inkling of the future classroom. Now critic teachers will no longer be his anchor and he will set out upon his own. Next September he will prove his theories of education sound or possibly otherwise.

Finally, as the audience rises and the graduates file past, the scholar moves his tassel to the right side and then marches from the platform to his classroom of tomorrow, the beginning of his life career.

FOOTBALL

Hampered by graduation losses of the 1951 squad, Coach Struck and Assistants Frye and Heldt worked with some twenty-nine underclassmen and nine seniors for the 1952 team. The Redbirds compiled a record of one win, six losses, and two ties for the season.

Quarterback Wes Bair set an all-time school passing record and led the small colleges of the nation, completing 135 aerials in nine games for 1,359 yards. Ends Chuck Harrington and Dorian Smith approached a record in the number of passes received and were among the best in the area. Bair and Smith were named to Southern Illinois University's All Opponents' Squad, and Bair was nominated for Little All American honors by the IIAC.

Roger Francour developed into one of the squad's outstanding runners. Bulwark in the Birdie line was "Big Ben" Clark, 215-pound tackle, who saw action on offense and defense. Linebacker Gene Hoffman proved outstanding, especially in his vicious tackling.

Co-captains for next season are Gene Hoffman and Jim Fox, both of whom saw much action on this year's squad.

Coach Struck unleashed his gridiron aggregation against a strong Indiana State squad and came off on the short end of a 33-7 score. Fullback Jim York scored the only Normal touchdown, and Bair passed to Harrington for the afterpoint. Scott Field came to the campus for the opening of the home schedule and surpassed the Birdies, 32-20, despite the brilliant play of Bair.

Southern handed the Struckmen their third setback, 27-20. Normal's scores came on two touchdown passes from Bair to Gordon McGregor and a quarterback sneak by Herb Raab.

In the most hotly contested game of the season, the Redbirds bounced back in the last quarter to tie their Sugar Creek rivals, 14-14. Shifty halfbacks Roger Francour and John McCoy picked up long ground gains, and Bair passed for the touchdowns. Ben Clark scored the tying two points for Normal.

Western's Leathernecks from Macomb romped over the Redbirds, 20-7, before the ISNU homecoming crowd. Still seeking a first win, the squad met a tough Northern team and were set back 28-20.

Spectatars of the DeKalb-Narmal game.

Central Michigan lengthened the Birdies' losing streak by grinding out a 35-12 win. Again, Bair and his two elusive ends, Smith and Harrington, dominated the Redbird scoring punch.

A last minute score by Michigan Normal resulted in the second tie game of the season, 14-14. Francour scored the first touchdown, and Bair passed to Smith for the second. In a 27-26 victory over Eastern, it was Bair all the way as the scrappy field general threw for three touchdowns and scampered around end for a fourth. Harrington took a Bair pass and ran it thirty yards for the first Normal score. Eastern retaliated, but Bair passed to Francour, who carried the pigskin another thirty to pay dirt. Dorian Smith copped the third touchdown after carrying the ball fifty-five yards.

Coach Warren Crews' "B" squad racked up an impressive record of four wins and two losses this year. Individual standouts were Don Magee, who moved up to the varsity during the season, and Elmer Griffin, who picked up much of the ground yardage.

The men opened the season with Northern, winning 7-6, behind the running of Griffin. Dan Schroeder and Don Magee led a strong attack against Western, winning 14-0. Mel Stern and Dick Langenfeld joined the outstanding as the team poured it on against Eastern, 33-0.

Joliet Junior College handed the squad its first setback, 20-7, despite the performances of Don Trimble and Magee. LaSalle-Peru Junior College overwhelmed the "B's" in a rough and tumble game, 34-13, regardless of Schroeder's and Trimble's efforts.

Western fell to the battling crew a second time, 20-13, as Bob Long, Griffin, and Trimble initiated the punch. The team wound up their season royally by romping over Eastern, 70-0.

THE YEAR'S SPORTS

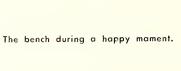

Caach Gaff advises Captain Richard.

Building his squad around a nucleus of four returning lettermen, Coach James "Pim" Goff molded his Redbird players into a formidable unit which compiled an 11-13 record in what Coach Goff termed his most difficult schedule at ISNU.

Meeting a red hot Michigan Normal team during the Christmas holidays, the Redbirds matched the visitors' output point for point before losing 102-99 in a game that set a new total scoring record for McCormick Gymnasium. Later in the season, veteran guard and point-maker BiH Sarver set a new individual scoring record of 1282 points, surpassing the old record of 1254 held by Glen Honsbruch. The scrappy redhead also topped the Conference scoring with 298. Bob Witt won the free throw award with a .805 average, edging out Sarver by a single point.

Assisting Coach Goff with the team activities was LaVerne Changnon. Equally responsible for the smooth functioning of the squad were Managers Don Anderson, Bob Becker, and Lloyd Wineburner.

Basketball

A leap into the air and off to the basket.

The Redbird cagers opened their season with a fast pace that endured to the very finish as they narrowly defeated Gonzaga College of Spokane, Washington. Almost dwarfed by their traveling opponents, the Cards annexed their first victory on a long shot by Bill Sarver in the last seconds of the game.

Coach Goff's lads turned in one of their finest nights at the basket by hitting for a 43.5 shot percentage before bowing out in the overtime period to Michigan Normal, as Webster Kirbsey dropped in two gratis points to make it a Huron win 102-99.

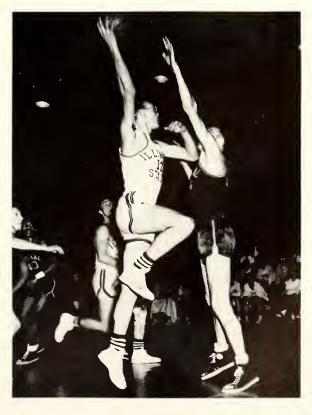

Always a highlight, the annual game with Wesleyan lived up to expectations. With only seven seconds remaining in the seesaw battle, the Titans led by two points. The ball was passed to LeRoy Eicken, and "The Gunner" pulled a 65-foot shot from the ankles to tie the score. Wesleyan, however, wasn't to be denied, and when the bedlam had subsided, the Titans owned a 77-72 victory.

A blistering fourth quarter rally, during which the Redbirds singed the nets for 32 points, gave Coach Goff's cage crew an 81-80 win over Southern. Mighty Eastern was not to escape the fury of the ISNU basketeers either, as the league leaders were humbled 91-89. The main thorn in the side of the Panthers was the tow-headed Bill Sarver, who personally contributed 41 points, thereby setting a new ISNU single game record.

Perhaps one of the most conspicuous things about the team this year was the fact that there was not a "first five." Although Coach Goff used almost every possible lineup during the season, he never found one that completely overshadowed the others.

The individual standout of the players was Bill Sarver, who more than lived up to his nickname, "Wiley Willy." Del Swearingen alternated at the other guard spot with LeRoy Eicken. Don Richard performed most of the center's duties, although freshman Bob Bryant frequently broke into the lineup. Working at the forward posts were Ed Hayes and Bob Witt.

Victory tastes sweet, and no one is more aware of its flavor than Coach Warren Crews, who piloted the battling "B" squad of ISNU to an undefeated season. Opening their schedule with an impressive 81-55 win over Millikin University, the Baby Birdies quickly followed with a 94-60 victory over Western and a 73-63 win over Northern. Later two more triumphs were added to the record as Springfield Junior College fell 77-42 and Wesleyan 74-59. Meeting Springfield again, the Redbirds persisted in their winning streak by defeating the opponent 91-61. Western's Leathernecks appeared on the schedule only to have a last quarter rally cut short 95-90.

The junior cagers added another victory by overpowering Northern 97-81. Eastern made a bid to halt the "B's," but Jim Olivero paced his teammates with 30 points that helped the squad emerge triumphant in the overtime period. A week later the fast-breaking Normal quintet brought joy to the hearts of ISNU fans by edging the Titans of Wesleyan 76-75 in an action-packed contest in McCormick Gymnasium. After these scores only mighty Eastern remained on the schedule, and the cool-headed players made it a perfect season by defeating them 92-80.

Wrestling

Coach Gene Hill opened his 20th season as ISNU wrestling coach on a somewhat pessimistic note, but the won-loss record at the end of the year proved little necessity for his doubts. True, the Redbirds didn't win all games, but they did compile a 7-3 dual meet record.

Although nine veterans returned to bolster the squad, the uninitiated freshmen came through with many valuable team points. George Egofske, weighing 157 pounds, annexed his third conference championship, not to mention a straight run of wins in dual meets and second in the Wheaton Invitational. Egofske also walked off with the Clyde Hudelson wrestling trophy given for the squad member with the most pins. Sophomore Dick Bruno at 137 pounds placed second in the conference. Freshman Charlie Lauss at 167 pounds proved to be Coach Hill's big gun, as he climaxed his enviable record with a conference championship. The Redbirds had their third champ in Roger Francour in the 147 pound division.

Although picked by the experts as a poor contender, the Redbird wrestlers beat Northern 31-30 to bring the conference championship to Normal once again. Earlier, they were held to a third place tie in the Wheaton meet.

After opening their season with a 21-11 win over Beloit, the Birdies followed with another rout over Southern 27-3. A somewhat injury-plagued team met Navy Pier and was narrowly defeated 15-14. The Cards later bounced back with a 17-13 win over Wheaton and a 30-4 victory over Eastern. However, defeat again loomed large for the squad as Northern's Huskies racked up a 14-11 win, and Arkansas State ran roughshod to a score of 17-9. Chicago wasn't so lucky, however, and the Redbirds poured it on to win a 29-3 victory.

The most outstanding fact of the season was that only three of the wrestlers were graduated, and several competent replacements had already been developed.

Track

Coach Joe Cogdal put his twenty-fifth successive track squad into the field with the usual characteristic strength of his teams. Captained by Charles Marler, the team boasted a 3-2 record in dual meets, second in the IIAC Conference, and the championship of the District NAIA.

Season records for the Cogdalite crew included Normal triumphs over Northern, Eastern, and Chanute, a safe marginal win in the Triangular Meet, and fifth place in the Elmhurst Invitational. Normal dropped a meet to Western and lost by a narrow score to Southern.

Individual standouts for the Redbirds tracksters were Cliff Smith, who was undefeated in the 100; Del Swearingen, who broke his own school record in the discus several times, setting a new tally of 147'4'' as well as placing high in the shot; and Bob Eudeikis, who nearly tied the school record in the javelin throw. Other stars were Jack Finnell, a half miler, and Bob Swift and Dick Campton, consistent placers in the second mile.

Three men went to the NAIA Meet in Abilene, Texas, placing sixth in this competition.

Coach Joe Cogdal's cross country squad broke even in their season's wins and losses, with two wins in their dual meets. The outstanding performance of the year was the second place in the IICA. Normal also placed third in the Loyola Invitational and fourth in the IIAC Meet.

Dick Campton, captain, led the Cogdal crew in all their dual meets and was rated one of the best distance runners in the state. Other outstanding performers for the squad were Vernon Kaliher, Paul Benson, Dale Finnell, and Bob Rees.

Since the beginning of ISNU'S cross country, the distance men have won twenty-eight championships—fourteen in the IIAC, eleven in the Inter-State, and three in the Loyola Meet.

Baseball

The 1952 baseball team opened its season in the deep South where they played seven games. The twenty men who went on the southern trip were accompanied by Coach Harold Frye and Assistant Coach James Goff. The Redbirds met Elgin Air Force Base for two games, losing both by scores of 3-2 and 2-0. Later, they met Pensacola Air Station, winning one game 10-6 behind the pitching of Paul Robinson and reliefer Lloyd Wineburner, and dropping the next game, 6-3.

Glen Honsbruch pitched a four hitter to beat Saufley Air Field 9-3. The Redbirds returned to Elgin and picked up another victory, 7-6. Swinging north again, the squad dropped a close game, 6-5.

Home again, the Birdies met Northern, splitting a double header, 4-2, 4-3. Quantico Marines invaded the campus and walked off with a 22-2 victory. Coach Frye took his squad to Eastern where they split a double header, 8-15, 7-3.

The Redbird bats boomed loudly as John Keegan pitched a one-hitter over Plattville, Wisconsin, 9-0. The Birds then went into a slump and dropped two games to Western, 8-9, 1-2, followed by two losses to Southern, 7-0, 4-3. The University of Illinois came to Normal and won a 5-3 victory. Later in the season the team attempted to avenge themselves but failed, losing 8-3.

Michigan Normal handed out two more defeats, 4-2, 3-2. The Redbirds bounced back with a win over Millikin, 4-2, following it up with another over Central Michigan, 4-3.

The team rounded out the season with Wesleyan, losing two games, 11-5, 4-1, making the season's record eight wins and eighteen losses.

Honors on this year's squad went to Tom Molloy who was voted the most valuable player on the squad and in the conference. Batting honors went to Charles Moser with a .302 average. Shortstop Ray Torry received the trophy for runs batted in with sixteen for the season.

Tom Henderson and Frank Purdy won the district doubles and placed high in the national meet. Normal also copped the NAIC Tournament. The season's scores included five wins and one loss in the South and eight wins and three losses in their regular season at home. LaVerne Changnon served as assistant coach.

After returning home, Coach Howard Hancock piloted his deeply tanned squad through a regular season of 12 matches, during which they defeated Southern and Wesleyan Universities.

John Goodwin, who was Coach Hancock's number one man throughout the season, won fifth place in the Conference Meet. Other honors were won in the Conference Meet at Ypsilanti, Michigan, where the squad took fifth place honors.

Swimming

Working around a nucleus of four returning lettermen, Coach Tom Henderson guided his Redbird swimming team into a full 9-game schedule, emerging as victor in two. Being further hampered by lack of facilities at ISNU, the squad was forced to practice and hold meets at Wesleyan.

Competing in their fourth year of inter-collegiate competition, the Cards scored victories over Western Illinois State Teachers College and Monmouth College. Captain-elect Roger Hufford paced the squad throughout the season, winning regularly in the individual races. Other leading competitors were Jerry Curl and Tom Stolt.

Alpha Delta

One of the infant campus organizations is the journalism fraternity, which met each month to promote wholehearted interest in practical journalism for the University. The troupe initiated new members who had completed at least a year's work on the Index or the Vidette. The little band now totals twenty members plus several charter members on campus.

A turkey dinner highlighted their Christmas party at the home of their sponsor, R. W. Tudor. A special activity for the year was a plan for the introduction of a humor sheet to be published under the title of the "Pigeon."

Wielding the gavel was President Imogene Lindberg, aided by Lois Van Buren, vice-president; Patricia Donahue, secretary; and treasurer, Dick Godfrey.

Alpha Phi Omega

Alpha Phi Omega, honorary scouting fraternity, attempts to serve the college, community, and the nation by taking a special interest in the Boy Scouts of America. Many of their meetings were concerned with programs for scout troops, while others were devoted to plans for participating in the Carnival, Christmas ceremonies, and College Day activities.

The club totals twenty-seven members who have been scouts and who are in good academic standing. Chief scout man was Charles Lane, president, supported by his staff, Herb Jacobson and Ray Horky, vice-presidents; Richard Rikenburger, recording secretary; Roger Cushman, corresponding secretary; and Don Rosenkrans, treasurer. Mr. T. J. Douglass was the sponsor.

Bernard Gaetze, Dan Judy, Ed Behm, Warren Stephey, Russell Finney, Jahn Fitzgerald and Fard Lanterman hald a discussion.

Fostering a fraternal spirit among students in teachertraining for vocational agriculture is the purpose of Alpha Tau Alpha. The fifteen members of the organization attempted to gain information and experience in rural living for better community service.

Assisting faculty Sponsor Ralph Benton were Warren Stephey, president; John Fitzgerald, vice-president; Russell Finney, secretary; and Dan Judy, treasurer.

Blackfriars

This worthy fraternity of men is known for its spectacular initiations and its annual spring show. Proceeds from their activities provide for an annual scholarship for some eligible student.

Ringleaders for the merry men were Truman Fox, abbot; James Peterson, prior; Don Shader and Bruce Johnston, scribes; Gene Manuel, purser. Mr. Charles Porter was the sponsor.

A traveling troupe from the circus visited surrounding communities where they gave exhibitions of their skill and agility. The group participated in the homecoming parade and Women's League Carnival.

Gamma Phi perfects physical education to the "nth" degree. New members are presented with blue chenille emblems upon their initiation; seniors are given white chenille emblems as a token of their service.

The geographers endeavor to advance the professional status of geography as a cultural and a practical subject. The chapter's forty-three campus members were initiated as a result of having completed eight semester hours in geography as a major or a minor in the field.

The aroma of coffee drifting throughout the rooms of North Hall once each week indicated the well attended coffee hours held by the members. Slides and movies were on several of the monthly program agendas. Extra special events were a banquet and a geography trippers' breakfast during homecoming.

Chief man of the world was William Shawgo, who was aided by LeRoy Eicken, vice-president; Edna Moser, secretary; Donald McLean, treasurer; and Miss Mabel Crompton, the sponsor.

This honorary fraternity in industrial arts education promotes and stimulates interest in this field in the schools. Any student with twelve hours of "B" work in this subject may join the group which recognizes professional training and high scholarship in the field and stimulates closer fraternal bonds between prospective teachers and supervisors who are taking professional work at ISNU. This organization, one of the newcomers on campus, originated in 1949.

A homecoming reception of coffee and doughnuts and the initiation banquet highlighted the club's year of events. The Rho chapter visited various school shops where the members viewed different types of management.

Serving as president for the seventy-four members was Kenneth Barton. Other officers were Dick Goelzer. vice-president, and Dean Blomaren, secretary-treasurer. Dr. H. O. Reed was the sponsor.

Iota Lambda Sigma Kappa Delta Epsilon

The ISNU local chapter achieved honor at the national Kappa Delta Epsilon convention in New York City this year when it received the organization's activity trophy and was elected vice-president of its Junior Council.

This honorary education society for women endeavors to instill high standards of scholastic attainment and professional ideals among its members, who must have a "B" average. The girls held a coffee hour for their homecoming alumni, observed their Founders' Day with a spring banquet, and published a newsletter. "Teaching as a Profession" was the theme selected this year for their national writing contest.

Norma Little was the president of the forty members; other officers were Barbara Frank, vice-president; Ruth Knox, recording secretary-treasurer; Barbara Reed, corresponding secretary; and Peg Hoffman, historian. Miss Mary Webb served as the sponsor.

Kappa Delta Pi

In 1922 the Mu chapter of Kappa Delta Pi was founded on this campus. Dedicated to the encouragement of high professional standards, Kappa Delta Pi endeavors to promote scholastic attainment. Each year the fraternity presents a Sophomore Award to the sophomore with the highest grade point average. Members must be at least of junior standing, have a general scholarship above the upper quartile point of the college, and have completed six hours in education.

Officers were Marianne Ullrich, president; Elizabeth Gerber Hinton, vice-president; Nancy Kampmeier, recording secretary; Margot Kepter, corresponding secretary; and Harold Limper, treasurer. Dr. Francis Belshe was the sponsor.

Kappa Mu Epsilon

To foster further interest in mathematics and to appreciate its beauty is the main purpose of this organization, which provides recognition for students of this subject. To be eligible for initiation, the newcomer must have completed nine hours of mathematics through differential calculus with a minimum of a "C" in three hours.

Social activities included a homecoming breakfast at the Normal Methodist Church where Dr. Francis Belshe spoke on "Academic Freedom." This organization assisted in conducting the annual spring mathematics conference.

Chief mathematician was Dolly Pappas, assisted by her cohorts, Richard Dunagan, vice-president; Joyce Albrecht, secretary; and Jan Mandel, treasurer. Mr. Francis R. Brown was the sponsor.

Managing the affairs were Jayne Clark, president; Marilyn Doubet, Lillabelle Lebegue, vice-presidents; Carol Bateman, Lois Lamont, secretaries; Marjorie Reinhart, treasurer; and Miss Bernadine Johnson, the sponsor.

Pi Gamma Mu

The Theta chapter of Pi Gamma Mu, the social science honorary fraternity, requires a "B" average in twenty hours of work in the field to be eligible for membership.

Honors galore were heaped on this national honorary forensics group which includes students who have participated in intercollegiate forensics. One of their victories was second rating in the Central States Tournament at Columbus, Ohio. A second place winning was brought home from the Greenville College Tournament.

Some of the debaters took part in the Illinois Student Legislative Assembly in Springfield last fall. "Democrats versus the Republicans" was debated by the traveling members at Bellflower's Parent-Teachers' Association. The Tower Studio and WJBC broadcast radio panels by the students. The group sponsored the twenty-first annual ISNU Invitational Debate Tournament.

Marjorie Johnson was the president of this honorary organization, which originated as the first Pi Kappa Delta in Illinois Teachers Colleges. Jack Parker was vice-president; Art Workun, secretary; and Dr. Ralph Micken was the sponsor.

Pi Omega Pi

'Way back in 1928 several business education students hurried through their typing, took a shortcut through their shorthand, and gathered around the files to organize the Theta Chapter of Pi Omega Pi. Twenty-five years later this national honorary commerce fraternity is still promoting interest in the field of business and encouraging newer methods in its teaching.

Monthly meetings were held at the home of the sponsor, Dr. Harold Koepke, or of some other member of the business faculty. The club held their annual homecoming banquet and published a newsletter. To be eligible for their spring or fall initiation, one must be a junior with fifteen hours in the field, five hours in education, and with better than a "B" average.

Eugene Bunte led the members with the assistance of Marian Gardner, vice-president; Katherine Floyd, secretary; Gisela Lask, treasurer; and Marilyn Holocker, historian.

Sigma Tau Delta

Truth, sincerity, and design! These are the mottoes for this English honorary fraternity which seeks to stimulate creative writing. This year the group voted to undertake a project which would bring some well known personage in the English field to the campus for a lecture. This activity was financed by their annual sale of books which were contributed by the faculty and sold to the students at low rates.

Majors and minors who have attained a "B" average in English courses may be admitted to the organization. This year the members made an intensive study of Christopher Fry's "The Lady's Not for Burning," when they gathered at Dr. Dale Vetter's home to hear records of the play. Miss Ruth Stroud entertained the members in February when the group criticized the works of various poets. In the spring, tribute was paid to Mr. William Shakespeare in a celebration of his birthday at Dr. H. R. Hiett's home.

Composing the fraternity staff were Colleen Robinson, president; Mary Lou Hauser, vice-president; Glenn Rittmueller, secretary; Donna Timm, treasurer; and Miss Esther Vinson, sponsor.

Theta Alpha Phi

Although the annual spring play was the major function of this honorary dramatics fraternity, some of the members also enjoyed playing such minor roles as those of Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus at their Christmas party. At their annual banquet, the dramatists donned colorful costumes and daubed rouge and powder on their faces to portray such characters as Falstaff, Romeo, Cyrano, and other famous personages.

Social events were usually planned in conjunction with Jesters. Sponsor Mabel C. Allen entertained the twenty members in September with a picnic at her home. Their other meetings were dinner gatherings held at the homes of the members.

The association strives to develop the dramatic abilities of students. Major roles in two University plays or credits gained from production work entitles one to membership into this Delta chapter which originated in 1926. Two initiations are held each year.

Chief Shakespearean actor was Glenn Schuermann, president, supported by his cast of Dorothy Edwards, vice-president, and Donna DeLong, secretary.

Colleen Robinson, literary editor, identified picture characters, wrote copy, and proofread writeups. Guarding the purse strings was Dick Pierce, who paid all bills for supplies and equipment. Del Cryer and assistant Bill Dwyer edited the sports stories and recorded scores, honors, and players to present a view of ISNU's team plays.

Pounding the typewriter keys were Mercedes Tompkins, Bonnie Malcor, Pat Hart, Joyce Albrecht, and Marilyn Shinkey. Janet Berg, Lois Van Buren, and Betty Bauerle undertook that intricate process of indexing the annual. Assisting with proofreading and writing copy were Melissa Ritter, Glenn Rittmueller, and Dick Knopik.

Miss Vermell Wise cast a watchful eye over the group as she provided assistance in overcoming the rough spots. Miss Alta Day and Mrs. Mary Parker advised the staff on business problems and art work.

"Come on; let's lay out the faculty. Get the freshmen out of the filing cabinet, and we'll work on them. Blackfriars will have to be cut; there are too many characters." Such were the expressions sometimes heard in the Index office on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons where the staff and its crew gathered to bring to completion this 1953 Index.

Editor Donna Timm supervised activity as staff members worked against time to meet deadlines. Saturdays were frequently working days for the members as they dashed hurriedly about completing material for printer and engraver. However, nights became meeting dates, too, when the crew treaked over to North Hall to get out the very last pieces.

The staff member seen popping in and out of meetings with her little black box was Jean Lindberg, photographer, assisted by Stan Peters. Masters of the glue and brush were Keith Weiss and helper Helen Schramm who laid out pictures and did all art work.

"Editors Harold Hunsinger, Pat Donahue Handle the Headaches" might have been a headline for the minutes of the Vidette meetings where these two people set the deadlines, the beats, and the rules to be met. Between bites of doughnuts and sips of coffee, comments were made for the next issue of the school's weekly newspaper.

During the second semester Harold Hunsinger handed over the editorship to Pat Donahue and her assistant, Betty Rave. Dick Godfrey and his helper, Cy Zoerner, directed sports writeups for men, while Doris Richter wrote women's athletics news. Stan Peters served in double capacity as advertising manager and photographer. Other photographers were Don McLean and Merrill Froney. Shad Fox, Diana Rogers, and Roy Schoenborn revealed their talents as cartoonists and artists. Juggling the expense budget to meet finances was undertaken by Don McLean. Dick Knopik, Gene Bunte, June Clark, and Norma Canham served as editorial assistants. Mr. R. W. Tudor was the faculty advisor.

Marching Band

Wamen's Marching Band an parade.

The "Redbird Marching Song" was heard quite frequently last fall as the men and women of Marching Band rehearsed twice weekly for their performances at the football games. From four o'clock until six, the members played and tramped up and down campus in spite of aching feet, cold fingers, and an empty stomach. Operating with a minimum of time and in limited space, the group mastered various marching patterns to entertain spectators during football half-times. Other activities included parading for Wesleyan's and ISNU's homecomings. A picnic mixer at Director Wayne F. Sherrard's home was the one social event for the season.

One morning last fall, at the dark hour of five o'clock, the one hundred and eighty-five band members boarded the school buses for Southern Illinois University at Carbondale. The travelers performed for football fans there and cheered the Redbirds in their evening game. Previous to this evening performance, the energetic group participated in two parades en route to Carbondale. The first performance was at the Centennial parade in Moweaqua, and the other was a parade in Centralia.

Jim Partridge served as student assistant for the entire band. Leaders for the fifty-five members of Men's Marching Band were Phillip Lackey, president; Christian, vice-president; James Ziegler and Albert Pizzamiglio, secretaries. Drum major was Harold Brown, and drum sergeant was James Kidoguchi.

Diana Thornton was the drum majorette for Women's Marching Band. Drum sergeants were Dorothy James and Barbara McCullough.

Concert Band

This year the one-hundred and two members of Concert Band had occasion to press their red and white suits especially well and to check their instruments to the last detail. In April the group left the campus for a two day tour which took them to various towns in the northeastern section of the state.

Featured on the music schedule were various duets, trios, and quartet numbers in addition to those played by the Band. One of the trios consisted of Bill Lampi, Bob Hutton, and Marge Israel, who interpreted Agostini's composition, "The Three Trumpeters." The trombone quartets, one composed of four men, Ed Jones, Bob Graves, Bill Seymour, and Marco Pizzamiglio, and the other of four women, Mildred Lentz, Imogene Soloman, Ruth Knox, and Eileen Hite, alternated in playing Bennett's "Trombone Troubadours" at different towns.

Not to be outdone by the trumpets and trombone players, other instrumentalists entered the program to display their talents. The saxophone players claimed the spotlight as Doris Carlson and Alice Purdes joined in playing Kling's "The Two Little Bulfinches." The little silver piccolo received its share of the program with Slater's "Piccolo Pic," played by Phil Lackey. The two featured numbers by the Concert Band were Wagner's "Flying Dutchman Overture" and Rossini's "La Gazza Ladra."

Party affairs of the year were planned by the President Phil Lackey, Vice-president Marge Israel, and Secretary Clarence Christian. The mixer at Director Wayne F. Sherrard's home helped freshman and other new students to get acquainted. The Concert players later stashed away their horns and drums and took to the lake for a picnic of the usual hot dogs, potato salad, and toasted marshmallows.

The Concert Band all decked out in red and white garb and ready far swing af the maestra's stick.

University Symphony

The University Symphony includes not only students and faculty players, but also citizens of the community. In April the members of the string, brass, wood wind, and percussion sections combined their talents to present a spring concert. Mr. Will Headley and Miss Wilma Schell claimed the spotlight for a two piano duet, "Concerto in C Major" by Bach. Also featured were Louise Schultz and the Men's Glee Club in the Brahm's "Alto Rhapsody."

The members gave an extra shine to their gold horns and a special testing to their violin strings in March when they visited Illinois high schools. Featured soloist on their programs was John Chiddix playing Grieg's "Piano Concerto." The Symphony also entertained the student body with an assembly.

All is not work and no play for the musicians, however. The director, Dr. Irwin Spector, entertained at the beginning of the year in his home where the troupe gathered for a mixer. The year reached a grand finale with a picnic at Miller Park.

Concertmaster and president for the Symphony was Linda Bailey. Aiding with her duties were Jo Ann Wood, vice-president; Alice Purdes, secretary; and Jim Kidoguchi, librarian.

Keep your eye on the stick, even if it goes out the window!

University Choir

This year the University Choir had the honor of singing in Orchestra Hall in Chicago where the choirs of ISNU and Illinois Wesleyan University joined the Chicago Musical College group in an afternoon performance with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra in an all Brahms program. The group sang "Song of Destiny."

At home the Choir made an appearance with the Bloomington-Normal Symphony for the first time. The ISNU members joined forces with Wesleyan's forty-five to make a total of one-hundred and one voices performing for the concert. George Schick, assistant director of the Chicago Symphony and director of the local Symphony, directed the entire performance. The Choir's concert numbers included "Abraham Lincoln Walks at Midnight" by Earl George; the finale from "Die Meistersinger von Nurnberg" by Wagner; the March and Chorus from "Carmen," Act IV, by Bizet; and the "Song of Destiny" by Brahms.

The choristers entered in the Yuletide spirit with songs for the Christmas Vesper services and participated in the annual performance of Handel's "Messiah." In the spring the songsters continued their performances with the presentation of the oratorio "St. Paul" by Mendelssohn. Squeezed into their crowded schedule were various radio programs.

Sam Cuzella was elected president for the singers, Pat Steiner, vice-president, and Audrey McCombs, secretary-treasurer. Dr. Emma R. Knudson was the director.

Men's Glee Club oll dressed up for some sweet hormony.

Glee Club

Catching the tour fever that prevails among the music organizations, the Men's Glee Club visited surrounding areas in two journeys this year. During January the men packed their good dress suits and white shirts for a three day trip to twelve nearby towns. Don Shader and Roger Jacobson were soloists for the performances, while Harold Smith played and sang his own composition, "April Rain." The What-For Quartet sang "String Along" by Coleman.

During the spring vacation, the Club took to the road again, this time appearing as far north as Sterling, Illinois, and as far west as lowa. The talents of these singers exceeded even the bounds of lowa and Illinois as the men appeared on a thirty minute television show at station WOC-TV in Davenport, lowa. At home the har-monizers sang before the Governor of Illinois, the Young Men's Club, the Rotary Club and the Professional Women's Club of Bloomington, and the Cornbelt Electric Cooperative.

This year the Club worked as two units because of the expanded program undertaken. The first unit consisting of a varsity of thirty-five men took care of television, radio, and recording engagements. The entire Glee Club took care of other programs.

Dr. Harlan Peithman directed the seventy-voice choir. Helping him govern the organization was the Executive Council composed of John Chiddix, Don Shader, Neal Claussen, Mark Ruby, Phil Lackey, Roger Jacobson, and the club officers, President Al Pizzamiglio; Vice-president James Partridge; and Secretary-treasurer Clarence Christian.

Women's Chorus

Twice weekly approximately seventy-five young women gathered purely for the joy of blending their voices in harmony and releasing their energies in song. Their practices culminated at intervals in entertainment for the students and the public. They participated in the "Messiah," and sponsored an assembly and a radio program for campus towers radio. Piano accompanists for the girls on these occasions were Madelyn Case and Katharine Schafer.

In April Mr. Herbert Sander's Chorus boarded the Redbird buses and cruised about to various towns in a one-hundred-mile area south of Bloomington. During their performances for schools in that vicinity, Audrey McCombs and Louise Schultz displayed their individual talents in vocal solos, while Madelyn Case and Katharine Schafer proved their ability in piano solos. The vast amount of energy released in singing during the tour was readily supplied by large amounts of such refreshments as candy and ice cream, so that eating also highlighted the tour.

A small group which worked jointly with the entire Chorus was the selective Treble Choir consisting of twenty-eight girls. These singers performed on and off campus for special programs, such as the Founders' Day program at Fell Hall where Governor Stratton spoke. Other programs included those for the Bloomington-Normal Churches and for the Young Men's Club of Bloomington.

Officers for the Chorus were Mildred Lentz, president; Joyce Brown, Peggy Davison, Barbara Rich, and Trilby Teters, secretaries; and Harriet Gove, Bonnie Jackson, and Carol Marshall, librarians.

University Club

All ISNU men are inducted into the ranks of this group which sponsors many of the main events of the University's social year. The Christmas service, the stunt show, and various dances are planned by them. The Big Four Dances, Dad's Day, and Mother's Day are sponsored in conjunction with Women's League.

The annual fall stag party provided the fellows with new male acquaintances. After some peppy tunes by the Circus Band and some lively school yells from the men, President Fairchild and the coaches presented their greetings to the group.

The association, which was formed in 1919, strives to increase school spirit, work effectively with the administration in policy making, cooperate with the student clubs, and promote fellowship among the men on campus.

Head man of the club was Gene Frank; other officers were Wayne Antenen, vice-president; and Frank Purdy, treasurer. Dean Ralph H. Linkins was the sponsor.

All campus women, after they signed the dotted line on registration day, automatically became members of this League, which sponsored the Spring Carnival, the Campus Sister Tea, and "Campus Cues" magazine.

Directing the women were Mary Mulkern, president; Mary Lou Eldridge, vice-president; Barbara Jacobs, secretary; Barbara Reed, treasurer; Lillabelle Legegue, president of House Presidents' Board; and Charlotte Sawyer, chairman of the Big Four. Miss Anna L. Keaton served as the sponsor.

Art Club

Bells, holly, and old Saint Nick were just a few of the original designs on the Christmas cards sold by the aggregation this year. Through such a project, the thirty-five members attempt to broaden their interests in art for appreciation and enjoyment. Decorating a homecoming float, preparing a spring picnic, and establishing a booth for the Carnival were major events.

One of the most elaborate events of ISNU's social life was the annual semi-formal Beaux Arts Ball sponsored by this group. The event was based on the Mardi Gras theme and featured Al Olson's orchestra.

Serving as president was Truman Fox. Other officers were Keith Weiss, vice-president; Gini Merret, secretary; and Russell Swayze, treasurer. Mr. George Barford was the sponsor.

Business Ed. Club

A "Big Brother" and "Big Sister" campaign was conducted by this group last fall to swell their membership to a final total of eighty. The Business Education Club, which is one of the oldest organizations on campus, was organized in 1915 as the Commerce Club.

"Waiting for Santa" and "Cora's Callers" were skits which entertained at their Christmas party. Dr. Clarence Sorensen discussed "Experience in Southeast Asia" at an earlier meeting. Planning the house decorations contest, field trips, picnics, and the Bis-Nus newsletter were major activities. A homecoming reception was held for the alumni.

Aiding President Dick Pierce were June Cherry, vicepresident; Nancy McCully, secretary; Leonard Hodgman, treasurer; and Dr. Raymond W. Esworthy, sponsor.

Canterbury Club

This Episcopal organization proposes to deepen its members' understanding of Christianity. Religious lectures and discussions were the chief program items for the Canterbury Club.

The officers were Tom Twyman, president; Nancy Meyerhoff, vice-president; and Veronica Elder, treasurer. Dr. Arthur Watterson was the sponsor.

Christian Science

The White Room was the place, each Monday night was the time, and an interested group of Christian Science members were the group for uniting students in closer bonds of spiritual fellowship.

College League

More ISNU people voted at the League's straw vote on the November election than at any previous one conducted at the University. Incidentally, the results corresponded with those of the national election.

The College League of Women Voters became public officials for a day when they managed the government of Normal in the spring. The state capital was toured in May when the group visited the state legislature in Springfield. Once, Dr. Helen Cavanagh spoke to the Voters about "The Electoral College," and Dr. John Kinneman, candidate in a recent election, discussed "Running for Congress." The women aim to promote better citizenship and to develop interest in government and political affairs.

The group leaders were JoAnn Horky, president; Lois Lauterbach, vice-president; Carol Hubbard, secretary-treasurer. Miss Alice Ebel was the sponsor.

Elementary Club

With a force two hundred strong, this huge organization undertook quite a diversified program to develop education on the elementary school level. While other clubs decorated one float for the homecoming parade, the energy of this troupe overflowed into two prizewinning floats, one a walking entry and the other a mobile contribution.

Their community project consisted of six activities centering around sports, story-telling, dancing, crafts, hiking, and drama periods which were conducted for twenty Victory Hall boys. The local clubbers sent representatives to the convention of the Association for Childhood Education. A fall initiation and a spring banquet were other important items.

Heading the large aggregation were Janet Berg, president; Joan Allen, vice-president; Marge Lighthall, secretary; Marge Kessler, treasurer; and Miss Ethel Stein and Miss Ruth Lundvall, sponsors.

English Club

Disciples of Dante and admirers of Amy Lowell gathered each month to discuss the latest in the literary field. One of the club's outstanding projects for the year was bringing Miss Rachel Crothers to the campus for a lecture about her career as a playwright. Another enjoyable event for the club was their field trip to the University of Illinois to see "The Heiress."

Dr. Florence Teager spoke to the group during the first semester about Christmas in England, Switzerland, and France. Venavente's play, "His Widow's Husband," was enacted by the members in an exchange program for Sigma Tau Delta. Probably the event which stole the spotlight during the second semester was a take-off on the English faculty. In addition to the monthly meetings, the members sponsored social gatherings every other Wednesday for English students and faculty to exchange news while sipping coffee and munching cookies.

Mary Lou Hauser was the president, assisted by her crew of Barbara Jacobs, vice-president; Norma Canham, secretary; and Madge Egan, treasurer. Miss Ruth Henline was the sponsor.

Future Teachers

Future Teachers of America seeks to acquaint its members with the professional literature, legislation, and duties for teachers, and strives to encourage young people to enter the teaching profession. Discussions were frequently conducted by the members on professional questions, such as need and placement for teachers and the strength of unity among teachers.

A homecoming float and a booth at the Carnival were the extent of their campus projects. The McMurray chapter planned programs for Future Teachers Clubs and Parent Teachers Associations, scheduled a field trip, and entered articles for education publications.

All students at ISNU are eligible for initiation. Seniors who have accomplished at least one-hundred hours of work for this club merit a certificate. This chapter, which was organized in 1946, boasted a membership of sixty people this year.

Leading the Future Teachers were Delores Thrasher, president; Nancy Bracken, secretary; Lola Giseburt, treasurer; and Charlotte Laing, historian. Miss Ruth Huggins and Mr. Ed Payne were the sponsors.

Home Ec. Club

Trim white headgears and crisp little aprons depicted the wearing apparel for the twenty-four home economics initiates last fall. Coffee recipes, cake recipes, and many others were the passwords for the girls.

The female chefs and seamstresses congregated monthly for friendly discussions and lectures on topics related to the home. This year the one-hundred members worked diligently on a homecoming float and a banquet, helped needy children during the Christmas season, and participated in the Community Chest Drive.

The chief woman of the home was Ruth Cooper, president, who was aided by Virginia Jarvis, vice-president; Mary B. Short, secretary; Doris Frampton, treasurer; and Miss Blossom Johnson, sponsor.

Industrial Arts Club

Seeking a bus schedule? Searching for your girl-friend's telephone number? The little red book known as the ISNU Directory compiled by the Industrial Arts members will present you with all the answers. Other projects for these members were a spring convention trip, a homecoming coffee and doughnut reception, and an Industrial Arts Roundup. Their float, "Drawing Plans for a Redbird Victory," won first prize in the parade.

The purposes of the group are to encourage education in their field and promote closer relationship among the students and faculty in the department. To lead the club toward these goals, Roger Etter was president; Roy Righter, vice-president; Kenneth Barton, secretary; Donald Rosenkrans, treasurer; and Mr. Max Honn, sponsor.

Leading the members were Max Scott, president; Diana Thornton, vice-president; Liz Hinton, secretary; Lucia Calcaterra, treasurer; and Mr. Harlan Shaw, sponsor.

Latin Club

"Why One Should Study Latin" and another discussion about "What Can We Do as Future Teachers to Encourage Interest in Latin?" were presented at some Latin Club meetings. A Roman banquet was a special event for the members.

Leta Bailey presided at the monthly gatherings, Joanne Babb served as treasurer, and Miss Helen Chiles was the sponsor.

Lowell Mason Club

Red baseball caps with names attached and little baskets of raw eggs were a few of the accessories of this year's initiates. During the initiation, vital statistics were gained through research by some of the newcomers, such as determining the number of fence posts on McCormick field.

To further the interest of students in music is the purpose of the Lowell Mason Club, which was formed in 1923. Any music major or minor is eligible for membership. The sixty members decorated a homecoming float, performed in the stunt show and the "Messiah," and went Christmas caroling. "H. M. S. Pinafore," which was produced by the organization, was their second annual operetta presentation, last year's having been "The Mikado."

Chief Lowell Mason was Jim Partridge; Marge Israel was vice-president; Mildred Lentz, secretary; Audrey Mc-Combs, treasurer; and Mr. Herbert Sanders, sponsor.

Lutheran Club

The Lutheran Club, which is open to all Christians, claims to promote a knowledge of the Bible and to develop a spirit of Christian fellowship.

On their year's agenda were vesper services, fellowship suppers, square dances, and Bible classes. Squeezed into the crowded schedule were a homecoming breakfast at St. John's Lutheran Church, Lenten services in the solarium of the Special Education Building, and an area retreat at Lake Bloomington. A wiener roast encouraged decoration of their homecoming walking float, "Victory Stew," which won second prize. The Luther-Light was a new publication launched this year under the editorship of Gene Bunte.

Leaders for the year were Paul Benson, president; Mary Jane Peterson, vice-president; Anna Albers, secretary; and Joyce Braun, treasurer. Dr. Victor Gimmestad was the sponsor.

Maize Grange

"Swing that pretty girl 'round the world' might have been a phrase called at the school square dance sponsored by the Grangers last fall. A spring barn dance was also given by the group.

Miss Corinne of Corinne Studios in Bloomington entertained at the Christmas meeting with her pictures of Hawaii. Speakers from off campus were on many of the program schedules. Bernard Goetze, Charles Morine, and Carolyn Cunningham were the delegates who attended the eighty-sixth annual session of the National Grange in Rockford.

The sixty-five members, who are mostly home economics and agriculture students, endeavor to develop the general welfare of people engaged in agriculture and to preserve their rural customs. Anyone interested in agriculture may enroll in the group, which originated in 1930, one of the oldest agricultural fraternities in the United States.

Master of events was Bernard Goetz, president; assisted by Margie Carus, secretary; Beulah Smith, treasurer; and Mr. C. W. Hudelson, sponsor.

Milnerites

The versatile Milnerites mainly attempt to perfect their efficiency as librarians, but frequently their domestic abilities shine forth as food ranging from chocolate fudge and popcorn balls to complete dinners are provided at meetings. At their dinner meeting in Mrs. Plotnicky's home, the Milnerites were shown slides of South America. The luncheon served by Sponsor Loretta Kreuz was a welcome treat for the girls after their project of reading shelves in University High Library. In October the alumni, librarians, and campus members gathered at the YWCA in Bloomington for the homecoming dinner where Miss Eunice Speer spoke to the guests.

A visit to the public and state libraries in Springfield expanded the members' knowledge of library management and operation. Stationery sales financed their other project of sending CARE book packages abroad.

Leaders for the group were Colleen Robinson, president; Donna Timm, vice-president; and Nancy Quimby, secretary-treasurer.

N Club

The N Club's direction of the homecoming queen contest is the most envied of the campus activities, for what could be more ideal than crowning a lovely winner?

Bright red sweaters with white "N's" are special privileges permitted only to these seventy-five members who have won their letters through participation in varsity sports. Their special project was managing concession stands at University athletic contests. Serving as hosts for the McLean County Basketball Tournament called for group cooperation of the men. The men joined Gamma Phi in planning the homecoming reception for alumni.

Dorian Smith served as club prexy, aided by Delmar Swearingen, vice-president; Evan Strawn, secretary; and George Egofske, treasurer. Mr. Carl D. Heldt was the sponsor.

Nature Study Club

The nature lovers were entertained by Leon Urbain, bird and insect authority, at one of their monthly meetings, when he presented some of his television slides on the Monarch butterfly. "Research Acres," a timelapse movie, impressed the members at another gathering.

All students interested in natural science may become organized and better acquainted through this club. A field trip each semester, picnics, and a homecoming open house were special attractions. The only requirement for membership is an interest in nature (other than human).

Lillabelle Lebegue was the president; William Cote, vice-president; Patricia Martin, secretary-treasurer; and Dr. Donald Ries was the sponsor.

Newman Club bigwigs make plans for a winter card party.

Newman Club

This association of Catholic students attempts to promote the spiritual and social interests of its one hundred and fifty members.

President was Jo Harrington; Jack Finnell, vicepresident; Dorothy Antey, secretary; Joyce Albrecht, treasurer. Mr. John R. Carlock was the sponsor.

Orchesis

If you have a yen for modern dance, then you are eligible for Orchesis. The members produced and sponsored dance concerts for ISNU.

Directing the dancers was Yvonne Garry. Others were Marjorie Lighthall, vice-president; Barbara Birthwright, secretary; Nancy Meyerhoff, treasurer; and Miss Miriam Gray, sponsor.

P. E. Club

Jolly old Saint Nick and his wife, with twelve little helpers dressed like dolls and other toys, greeted seventeen Victory Hall boys at the club's Yule party. This departmental club, which sponsored "Santa's Workshop," presented gifts to each of the boys.

Square dances and parties were social activities of the organization. A senior breakfast and a freshman mixer were special events. A three dollar prize rewarded the members' efforts for a homecoming float. Approximately one hundred majors and minors in health and physical education compose this group whose purpose is to increase interest in their field.

Officers for the year were Mary Behling, president; Doris Carlson, vice-president; Marge Drysdale, secretary; and Marilyn Conley, treasurer. Co-sponsors were Dr. Bernice Frey and Dr. Gwen Smith.

Physical Science Club

This year-old group of forty young Einsteins resolve to promote deeper interest in their subject and to provide better social and professional relationships between the faculty and students. The programs consisted of vital scientific subjects discussed by student leaders with other members contributing. Faculty members and outside speakers spoke frequently at the meetings. A social hour after each program provided opportunities for informal chats between the faculty and students.

Although rain destroyed the club's float last year, the group was successful in decorating and entering a float in this year's "Victory" parade. They won a twelve dollar prize for their diligent efforts.

Lawrence Smith served as president; Dorian Smith, vice-president; Joyce Albrecht, secretary; Don Bailey, treasurer; and Dr. Esther M. Griffith was the sponsor.

Science Club

Two score and one years ago, one of our forefathers, Professor Frederic Barber, brought forth on this campus a Science Club, conceived in the Physics Department and dedicated to the proposition that all faculty members and forty students in geography, mathematics, elementary, agriculture, home economics, physical science, chemistry, and biology should be acquainted with the ideals and developments in science. To be eligible for membership, these students must have at least a "B" average in academic work. Membership into the club is by faculty nomination and election by the student membership committee.

To coincide with the club's purpose, this year's program chairman, Dr. Arthur Watterson, lined up various programs ranging from an illustrated lecture on India and Pakistan to a motion picture on "Life Cycles in the Nature of Plants and Animals." Social events included an initiation, a Christmas party, and a picnic.

Dr. C. W. Sorensen served as faculty sponsor and club president. Harold Limper was vice-president, and Genevieve Stang was secretary-treasurer.

Social Science Club

Taking part in all activities on the ISNU campus is the aim of the Social Science Club. The members find ample work to do at homecoming time. Their most important part is direction of the parade—lining up floats and bands, getting it started on time, and guiding it along the correct route. The organization also enters the House Decorations contest and contributes a walking entry and a mobile float in the parade.

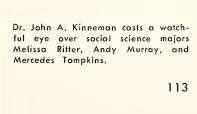

A booth for the Spring Carnival, a skit for the Stunt Show, and a spring picnic are other events for the members. Panel discussions of national election results, lectures on "Civil Defense," and movies about "Protection During Atom Bomb Raids" are samplings of some of their programs. Refreshments, of course, are served at all meetings.

The group proposes to bring together not only majors and minors in the field, but also anyone else who might be interested.

President Gayler Boettcher and Sponsor Dr. L. Tasher were assisted in their duties by Vice-President Bruce Johnson, Recording Secretary Melissa Ritter, Corresponding Secretary Catherine Baloy, and Treasurer Glenn Gasaway.

Maynard Saxby, Flayd Frantz, Barbara Zbinden Pyle, and Betty Butkus will later swing little sticks in the air in an attempt to break this pinata.

Spanish Club

La Estudiantina is a small, active organization of about fifteen members who are interested in an appreciation of the Spanish language and in closer cooperation with our Latin American neighbors. Anyone interested in this language may join the group.

Much gaiety prevailed at the Christmas party when the students of foreign language smashed the traditional pinata for the goodies inside. A Pan-American Day program and a Carnival booth entailed group cooperation. Some of the program highlights were a Spanish film, a discussion of the teaching problems of Spanish, and a play which was presented by the advanced language class.

President Barbara Zbinden Pyle conducted the meetings. Vice-president Betty Butkus and Secretary-Treasurer Marjorie Doman aided the president. Miss Allie Ward Billingsley was the sponsor.

Special Ed. Club

Although it is one of the new groups on campus, the Special Education Club's program is by no means small. The one hundred members met in September for a group picnic and later enjoyed square dancing in the solarium of the Special Education Building where Dr. Clifford Horton was the caller. Alumni rehashed old times at the club's coffee hour during homecoming.

The organization's program expanded into even broader horizons when bi-monthly programs of swimming, games, movies, and art activities were scheduled at the YWCA for Bloomington-Normal children. School dances and faculty-student parties were also planned.

Officers were Bill Whiteside, president; Pat Dege, vice-president; Ann Hall, secretary; and Helen Nickoley, treasurer. Sponsors were Dr. Mary Serra and Dr. Glenn Taylor.

Student Union plans are in the making by the Cauncil afficers.

Student Council

This ISNU delegation intends to promote the social welfare of the student body by voicing their opinions to the administration and by acting as a mediator between the two. The six larger departments select two students each for this group, while the others choose one each.

LeRoy Eicken was the president. Other officers were Cynthia Streckfuss, vice-president; Sylvia Lemanski, secretary; Richard Carr, treasurer; and William Anderson, sponsor.

Wesley Foundation

Wesley Foundation is sponsored by the pastorate of the First Methodist Church of Normal. To stimulate fellowship for all college young people and to develop the intelligent functioning of Christians in the world are the main goals for the group.

The Wesley leader was William Munns, who was assisted by Richard Dunagan, vice-president; Marjorie Shubert, secretary; and Juanita Sherwood, treasurer. Miss Martha Bussert was the sponsor.

The monthly coke hours were a must for these members who met for social gatherings in the WRA lounge. The Lake Bloomington outings were equally fun-filled occasions in which the weary but happy campers exhausted themselves with various activities. Intramurals, extramurals, and co-recreational sports provided a diversified program of fun and thrills.

Co-ed swimming parties at the YWCA and playnights were sponsored for the entertainment of all ISNU students. A spring banquet, sports days, and frosh play day were additional events. The Association's goal is to afford interesting and stimulating recreational activities for campus women.

Leader of the group was Doris Nibbe, helped by Rosalie Giffhorn, vice-president; Cynthia Streckfuss, secretary; Eileen Shumaker, treasurer; and Kathryn Pierce, intramural chairman.

Y. W. C. A.

A realization of a full and creative life through a growing knowledge of God—that is the main purpose of this campus organization. The first college group of this type was founded on this campus on November 12, 1872.

Besides their spring installation, the girls sold yellow and white mums at homecoming and made stuffed dolls for children of needy families at Christmas. Their Yule party was held at the home of Miss Whitten and Miss Hinman, where gifts were brought by the twenty members to be distributed at the Children's Home. "Know Your YWCA" was the theme at the October assemblage. Miss Ruth Eeaberry, secretary of the Board of Missions, spoke about Africa at the January meeting.

Miss Lela Winegarner sponsored this Association. Janet Householder was president; Barbara Schnorr, vice-president; Betty June Lanter, secretary; and Bette Chapin, treasurer.

Women's Dorm

"It's the best place to live on campus!" claimed the occupants of the Women's Dormitory. However, the girls had only one complaint—they came in the fall as trim college coeds, and went out in the spring as chubby cherubs, so that frequently they undertook reducing.

During the year the corridors gave very entertaining parties, such as a Halloween witch masquerade or just a plain "Goofy Hat Party." Springtime changed the activities, however, as warm, sunny days brought out the bathing beauties covered with sun-tan oil and wearing dark specs.

Casting a motherly eye over the residents were Mrs. Ethel Owens, the hall director, and Miss Isabelle Terrill, supervisor of the women's dormitories.

Some get air-mail letters, some just don't get any.

Careful, there, remember the woistline!

Men's Residence Hall, neighbor to the wamen across the way.

Men's Dorm

The Men's Residence Hall is located very conveniently—across the street are classrooms, and right next door is the Women's Dormitory.

Under the watchful eye of Mr. Dean E. Hackett, the hall director, and the floor counselors, the men apply themselves to diligent studying. However, in spite of the police action they still manage to congregate in certain rooms, or just caper in the corridors while eagerly awaiting their turn for the telephone to get the Women's Dormitories.

The Executive Council's duties were those of discussing the "gripes" of the Hall, this year's leads of the complaint parade being the missing motor for the kitchen toaster, noisy neighbors, and peculiar roommates.

Beware, Mr. Heidbrink, the Smith brothers already have one head!

Fell Hall, home of the female frosh, just "ain't what she used to be." Outside and inside the building has undergone reconstruction. One of the most attractive additions is "The Cage" which has made the Hall more popular than ever.

The three floors were really kept buzzing this year as Miss Isabelle Terrill's girls hurried about to answer private buzzers in their rooms. In the corridors soundproof telephone booths permitted the most intimate conversations.

Although Fell Hall has changed in makeup, the same old cooperative spirit still prevails there—the generosity of the girl with three boyfriends toward another with none, and the friendliness of the frosh who has the science test today toward the neighbor who had it yesterday.

"Hope the folks sent that check!"

Smith Hall

If one should dial 8-7730 by mistake, the answer would be none other than a booming base voice saying, "Hello, Smith Hall." Here fifty-two young gentlemen have their "home away from home." Ruling with an iron hand in a velvet glove is Dean Ralph R. Linkins, who advises the occupants.

Spring time at the Hall brings out the roses and the daffodils and also wandering pairs in the gardens. For special formal events the fairer sex invade the place where the men practice all the modern arts of chivalry. Other interests for their leisure time are intramural sports to maintain that masculine physique. Also, not to be forgotten, are their homecoming house decorations, last year's having been a "Western Massacre" which captured first prize.

Coming bock for thirds, just to be well stuffed.

Acknowledgments

Many, many thanks to everyone who helped with the 1953 Index. The staff haunted North Hall on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and most Saturdays, plus a few hours on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. Without their help, this book could not have been published.

In addition to the staff, we owe much to our sponsors, Miss Wise, Miss Day, and Mrs. Parker. Nelson Smith, University photographer, supplied many photographs. Camera Craft Studio and its staff were invaluable to us. For the physical part of the book, we must thank Indianapolis Engraving Company for engravings, Pantagraph Printing and Stationery Company for printing and binding, and the S. K. Smith Company for covers. The representatives of these firms brought us professional advice in times of need. From the Vidette we obtained scotch tape and staples, with which we held the book together in its early stages.

Again thanks to everyone.

Donna Timm Editor-in-Chief
